STRIKERS IN POSSESSION.

They Rule the Roost on South West Street-Will Try to Work To-Morrow.

"Scabs that enter here leave hope behind" are the roughly painted words on a large piece of canvas hanging at the corner of Kentucky avenue and West street. The mob has so far succeeded in keeping the men who went to work off the street. A crowd gathers at the time to commence work, and by intimidating the men and threatening to carry them off the street keep them from working. Yesterday morning some men attempted to take a couple of loads of dirt from the street, but, as a striker said, "they didn't do it."

In an interview Mr. DeRuiter said: "Our men are all right and want to go to work. but the mob won't let them. It is those Hoffbauer men who are causing all the fuss. Under Collins, Hannigan and some such men they are persuaded to keep our men from working. We have the contract to do the work, and we expect to do it if we have to appeal to the authorities. We intend to put a large force of men on the street Wednesday morning. If the mob calls those men scabs who do not belong to the Hoffbauer gang then we are scabs, but we expect to do the work, and we will commence Wednesday morning." Peculiar Accident.

Frank Brown, a colored man employed on the Washington-street improvements over Pogue run, was injured in a peculiar way yesterday morning. He was standing beneath the stone wall which is being built over the run, when a train of cars passing above jarred one of the heavy stone slabs loose. The missile in falling struck Brown, fracturing his thigh just above the left knee. He resides at No. 570 Lincoln avenue, but was sent to the hospital.

THOSE DEFAULTED BONDS.

Mr. Woollen Thinks the Firm Was Unable to Handle Them.

Just at present Indianapolis is at the mercy of her bondholders. Controller Woollen returned home from New York yesterday, and it became evident not only that the $600,000 of municipal bonds falling due on Saturday, July 1, were not paid, but also that no definite arrangements have been made for paying them. The holders of these bonds, or the holder of any one of them, could foreclose to-morrow and, with a legal right, demand a receiver for the city, "business administration" and all,

The Controller spent a goodly portion of the day in consultation with the Mayor and city attorney, but if they arrived at any conclusion what to do under the circumstances they declined to say what they were, and the chances are that they have found no solution of the difficulty.

There is a vast difference of opinion between the Controller and Coffin & Stanton, who bid par on the new issue of $621,000 four-and-a-half-per-cents, as to why they did not take them up. The version of the firm, as given to the New York Mail and Express, 18 as follows:

Coffin & Stanton, bankers at No. 72 Broadway, had the contract to place the new bonds that were to be used to take up the old issue to-day and to pay the July interest. As soon as they examined the new issue, however, they sent for Controller Woollen and informed him that it was

"I think the business will be arranged all right," said Mr. Coffin to-day. "The Indianapolis Council will have to meet first and correct the illegality. That will take time, but as soon as it is done the bonds will be taken. They are to draw 412 per centum interest, while the old bonds draw 712 interest. I understand that it will be paid to-day. The bondholders will doubt-less be willing to wait for the new bonds if the interest is paid."

The Council met in regular session last night, however, and no demand was made upon it to in any way correct the form of say was very emphatic. "This bond business is a very particular thing," said he to a Journal reporter last evening, "and I want it to go to the public right. I have determined to write a statement of the whole affair which you will be at liberty to use if you desire in Wednesday morning's issue of the Journal."

"I understand that in controdiction of the bonds. The Controller was loath to

"I understand that in contradiction of the firm's claim that the issue is illegal you have a letter from their attorneys pronouncing them all right," said the re-

"Yes, sir, that is true," replied Mr. Wool-len. "They made that claim of illegality to the public, not to me. They had to give some excuse," he continued warmly. "The fact is, as I believe, they were unable to take them up in the present stringent state of the money market, but to acknowledge this would have been almost to admit insolvency and they could not have kept six feet wide. The engineer was ordered to their doors open. They were unable to inspect it. take care of them and seek to throw the blame upon somebody else. Why they have been advertising these bonds for sale right along in the Financial Chronicle!"

"Have you any definite arrangements with Winslow, Lanier & Co. to carry the old bonds until they can be taken up?"
"As soon as anybody comes there for their money the situation is explained to them and they have all expressed entire satisfaction." "How long a time have you in which to arrange for taking up the old issue?" "I do not want it to run a day longer than I can help."

The unfortunate thing about the default is that it is causing not a little comment in Eastern financial circles and among East-ern newspapers. The following, taken from the editorial columns of the New York Tribune, is a sample:

The city of Indianapolis, it would seem, is not an adept in the management of her own finances. All our own make, will do the work. They give A dispatch states that her bonds to the amount of half a million dollars fell due yesterday, while there was nothing tangible in her treasury with which to meet them. Of course the embarrassment of this energetic and prosperous city is only temperary. It is hoped that the holders of the bonds can be induced to carry them until the money can be raised to pay them off. Indianapolis will doubtless know better next time. Just at present it is in order for her to fix the responsibility for the existing state of things where it belongs. She owes it to herself to club somebody.

> The majority of the people are inclined to divide the responsibility between the Mayor and the Council. Had the Council not rejected the Bonfil proposition, which Controller Wootlen urged it to accept some months ago, the bonds would have been floated at 4 per cent., with a big premium. If it shall be found that the claims of Coffin & Stanton of illegality in the form of the bonds holds good the responsibility lies between the city attorney and Mayor Sullivan, who is also said to be a lawyer.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Thirty-One More Electric Lights Ordered-Put Off with Vapor Lamps. The question of lights occupied much of the attention of the Board of Public Works yesterday morning. The electric lights which the Democratic administration began to dicker for in the autumn of 1890, and which, after various failures and sundry scandals, it succeeded in contracting for at a rate of $25 per year per light higher than the old contract a little over a year ago, are to be turned on within the next week or so, and the board is beginning to pay some attention to the protests about the location of the new lights.

Vapor lights and gas lamps are not to be done away with. They will be retained in all the districts not reached by the electric lighting system. Yesterday the board instructed the engineer to make out and submit a list of such gas and vapor lights as can be dispensed with under the new contract. The old contract of $15 per year for each gas light, made by the Republican Council over four years ago, has been allowed to slide along while the Sullivan administration was endeavoring to get electric lights. The authorities also en-deavored to let the old Republican contract of $60 per light for electric lights glide along in the same way, but the Brush company turned off the lights and brought them to its own terms per light. In answer to a number of protests and petitions the board yesterday ordered the Indianapolis Light and Power Company to put in thirty-one additional lights, at $85 per light per year, at the following points: Second and Tennessee, Chifford avenue and Sterling, Summit street, first square south from Washington street, being corner of Summit and Williams; Rockwood street, half way between Noble and East; Orange and Laurel streets, Saunders street, half way between East and Wright; Illi- June: Police pay roll, $7,641.74; station nois and Eighteenth, Central avenue and house account, $459.52; fire pay roll, $8,-Ninth, McCarty and High, Water street, 671.86; account, $1,013.07; market account, half way between Stephens and McCarty; Tenth and Ruckle, Eighth and Alabama, Hendricks street, half way between Nebraska and Lincoln Lane; Tenth and Ash, Andrews and Sixteenth, Tennessee and Fifteenth, McCarty and Madison avenue, Ninth and Columbia avenue, Tenth and Greenwood, Ninth and Alvord streets, Pratt and Fayette streets, Brookside avenue, half way between Clifford avenue and they would like to invest profitably are in- | Stoughton street; Ninth and Bellefontaine, East street, and put additional light in Dougherty street, first alley west of Wright street; McKernan and Coburn, Garfield Place street, half way between Seventh and Lincoln avenue; East and Lockerbie, Lockerbie and Liberty, North and Liberty, Mississippi and Third streets.

Other petitioners, however, were not so fortunate. The city engineer was ordered to locate vapor lights throughout the Woodside district in the Ninth ward and to put vapor lights at the following points where electric lights had been petitioned for:

At Windsor and Orange avenues; along Naomi street from Shelby to State; along Eureka avenue at Michigan, Monroe and Greencastle streets; at Mayhew and Oregon streets; along Michigan road at Eighth, Ninth and Tenth streets; on Brookside avenue between Jupiter and Rural streets and between Orange and Inviter Jupiter.

Clifford-Avenue Sewer.

The board yesterday adopted the declaratory resolutions for the Clifford-avenue sewer. It is denominated a main sewer, thus taxing all the territory that may heresfter be drained by it. It is to run from Bellefontaine street in Massachusetta avenue to Tecumseh street in Clifford avenue, a length of 4,609 feet. Part of the distance it will be egg-shaped, varying in dimensions from three feet two inches by four feet nine inches to two feet four inches by three feet six inches; another stretch will be circular, varying from four feet three inches to two feet in diameter, and the rest will be a pipe sewer, varying from eighteen inches to a foot in diameter. Contractors will, of course, have to take their chances on getting from Congress the proportion of the cost taxed against the arsenal, and they will probably bid high enough to cover it, so that when they do get their money from the government it will be "like finding it."

The board yesterday notified the trustees of Woodruff Place of its action and asked the Woodruff board to make the necessary arrangements about paying the proportion of cost that may be assessed against property-owners within that corporation.

"Kicks" and Things. C. W. Sedwick complained of the miserable sweeping of Fletcher avenue. Referred to Sweeping Inspector Bushoug, who is still living. W. C. Fleming complained of the holes in the asphalt at Tennessee and Maryland streets. Referred to the Western Paving Property owners complained of the "hor-rible condition" of Yeiser street. Referred Property owners complained of the rough and rocky road on North Mississippi street. Street foreman ordered to repair it. The street foreman was ordered to quit dumping broken stone on Illinois street. The Indianapolis Gas Company was appealed to to replace the bowlders removed by it from the alley between Spann and Fletcher avenues. Paving Contracts Awarded, The contract for paving Maryland street, from Kentucky avenue to Pennsylvania street, for which bids were opened some time ago, was yesterday awarded to the Capital Paving Company at $8.57 per lineal foot on each side. Wabash paving brick and stratified curb are to be used.

Haller Bros. were awarded a contract to pave the sidewalks of Tacoma avenue, from Washington to Michigan street, with brick, at 7412 cents per foot. Nothing but "Pitch Lake" Goes, The Board of Works yesterday sent a letter to Arthur C. Harris, president of the Denver board, who had made some inquiries about asphalt. The board asserted that it had "thoroughly investigated" the qualities of "Pitch Lake" and "overflow" asphalt with the result that it will accept nothing but "Pitch Lake." The letter also stated that the cost varied from $2.80 to $2.55 per square yard.

Complaint About the New Dyke. Property owners in the vicinity of the new dyke, along White river, have entered complaint that it is not properly built. It was to have been nine feet wide at the top, and they declare that it is only from five to Local Sewer.

The board yesterday adopted a declaratory resolution for a local sewer in Wabash street, from Liberty to East, 485 feet in length and varying in diameter from a a foot to ten inches.

BOARD OF SAFETY.

Detective Ben Thornton Reinstated-"Jerry" Kinney Gets Off Easily.

The Board of Public Safety seld its menthly meeting behind closed doors yesterday morning. Detective Ben Thornton was reinstated in his old position without much ado. There was a heavy petition from business men asking for this. Thornton had submitted the following letter:

Gentlemen-For seventeen years I have been a member of the police force of the city of Indianapolis. Such service has been my life work, and whatever I have done worthy of praise has been done as a police officer. During the investigation of the facts surrounding the murder of Mr. Charles E. Eyster I now see I committed some grave indiscretions, but I ask you, gentlemen, to believe that they were indiscretions and not willful wrongs. From the evidence heard by you, gentlemen, you were entirely justified in the judgment you rendered, but in view of my past service, in riew of the fact that my past training fits me almost exclusively for work in the detective force, and in view of the further fact that my experience in the Eyster case is one I shall never forget, but will ever prevent me from falling into a like error, I mos. 'espectfully ask you to modify the judgment you then rendered against Die. Very respectfully, BENJAMIN F. THORNTON.

This was backed up by a communication from the prosecuting attorney and his assistant asking for a modification of the boards action in reducing him. The board had the following minute entered:

In consideration of the respectful letter written the board by Benjamin Thornton, bear-ing date, June 27, 1893, asking that the board modify its judgment in his case, together with an urgent letter of the same date, signed by John W. Holtzman, prosecuting attorney, and Charles E. Cox, deputy, as well as a petition signed by John W. Kern, and many leading citizens, merchants and bankers, requesting his reinstate-ment, and the board believing that the punishment already received by said Thornton has been beneficial to him, as well as to the entire police force, it is therefore ordered that Benjamin Thornton be reinstated as a member of the detective force beginning with this date, and the clark of the board is directed to make the communications referred to above a matter of record. It is reported that the department recovered $5,723.10 in stolen property during the month. Police Surgeon Earp reported that he had treated 14 policemen, 20 firemen and 12 prisoners in June.

Mrs. Annie Buchanan, the police matron, reported that fifty-two females, thirty-five white and seventeen colored, were under her care during the month. Bailiff Schwab reported 428 cases in the Police Court. Of these cases, the large number of sixty-nine were released on commitments, the tines of eleven were stayed, sixty-four were dismissed and eighty discharged. Clerk Herrick, of the Board of Safety, exhibited a table of $450.35 in receipts, and a like amount of expenditures.

The collections on the East market during June amounted to $342.25. Twentyfour fire alarms were sounded, and the actual working time on the fires amounted to six hours and forty minutes. The trial balance of Clerk Herrick made the following exhibit of expenditures for $265.30; office expense, $1.15. Building Inspector Fitchey illustrated the softness of his position. He showed 22 plans approved, 18 new chimneys ordered changed, 2 foundations changed, 4 walls ordered repaired and 6 hearths condemned.

INSPECTOR OF WEEDS.

John Hoffman Gets One of the Offices Under the Sullivan Administration,

The Sullivan administration is, by no means, going slow on the creation of new offices for the faithful. There has been a mysterious appointment about the City Hall since Saturday, but the name and the title of the new official did not come to light until yesterday, when the Board of Safety granted police powers to Johnnie Hoffman, who was in the sheriff's office dur-ing the administration of King. Hoffman is given powers as a sanitary inspector, the Board of Health having made the appointment on Saturday. Mr. Hoffman will be the inspector of weeds. His duties will consist in inspecting all weeds that are uncut and recommend to the Sullivan administration that the weeds be cut. He takes charge of the new position at once.

BRIEF MEETING OF THE COUNCIL. More "Perks" for the Plumbing Inspector-

No Change in Tennessee Street. There was a brief meeting of the Council last night, one of those sort of meetings that proclaims the state of innocuous desuetude into which that erstwhile dignified body has fallen. There was an ordinance introduced to define the precinct boundaries so that the Democratic party can go ahead with its primaries next Tuesday night. President Murphy will probably call a special meeting shortly in order to put the ordinance through before the primaries. No changes from the boundsries in force at the last county election have been provided for, except that Wood-ruff Place and Marlette Park are left out of the ordinance. Councilman Costello introduced an ordinance that provides for perquisites for one of the Sullivan administration's sinecureholders. It concerns the connecting of vaults with sewers, and provides that only vaults having flushing apparatus can be connected with the sewers. The plumbing inspector must examine these connections and see that they are properly made. For every examination he is to get a fee of 50 cents, and if he is right active he can make a very fat thing out of his lucrative office The ordinance in allowing no connections where there is no flushing will shut out all the old ground vaults, and some of the people who are taxed for the new State ditch sewer. People who have not constructed house vaults, will howl if the ordinance is passed. Provision is made for a $100 fine for a violation of this ordinance, Councilman Gasper attempted to bring up the ordinance changing the name of North Tennessee street to Capitol avenue, but parliamentary rules prevented him from doing so. Mr. Cooper, who introduced the ordinance, is at Chicago, and although he notified the Council at the last meeting, after the ordinance had been killed, that he intended to move for a reconsideration at this meeting, President Murphy held that Mr. Gasper could not move a reconsideration because he had voted with a minority. So the matter of reconsideration was dropped. There was no other business transacted.
